

Dan Nelson Paints the Town

After Dan Nelson paints your town, you'll never see it the same way again. His hundreds of cityscapes make it clear that he has a special way of capturing the beautiful hamlets and cities of North America. (DanNelsonArt.com)

Dan often spends a week in town-- producing oil and acrylic paintings, watercolor sketches, and a video montage. He loves chatting with onlookers, residents, tourists, and fellow artists while he works. "I do my best painting when I am mildly distracted," Dan quips, "And I love watching people's faces light up when they see--sometimes for the first time--how beautiful their home-town really is

So look for a big umbrella, a big easel, some sweet jazz tunes and a bunch of smiling faces. Dan Nelson is painting your town. You'll never see it the same way again.
